Many factors affect how you raise your child...

- Values
- Culture
- Religion
- Traditions

You often unconsciously copy what you have experienced during your own childhood. It is important to reflect on this. Perhaps you have thoughts about what you want to do differently with your own child. Perhaps you grew up in a different country, with a different religious faith and other values, or you may have a partner and/or family from another country, with a different faith and values.

- What are your thoughts about this?
- How were you raised?
- What is important for you?
- How do you think your child will be affected?
- How will you raise your child?
- Do you see any challenges/dilemmas for you in this area?
